RECONCILING HUMAN RIGHTS WITH STATE SECURITY

Reconciliation settles conflicts and differences utilizing a "common denominator."

Reconciling the conflict between Human Rights and State Security into wider perspective, "Human Security," focuses on a "common interest: "Global Survival." This obviates polarization, accelerates negotiation and fosters awareness of higher values and principles; i.e., dignity, tolerance and high-mindedness in civil affairs and in National, Regional, and International relations. Codification of good reconciliation practices will support the UN MDGs.
